Good Morning Dustin and Lydia,

Hope you are feeling better Lydia! Sorry we missed you yesterday ☹.

Thank you for providing a constructive forum yesterday...and for your patience (& inspiration ☺) as we explore opportunities to move the TMDL process forward.

Is there a good time to chat in the next few days? There are a few small minor items we did not quite get to yesterday.

Regarding your question on Reasonable Assurance, we have an internal meeting scheduled on March 16th to advance that dialogue. Does it make sense for us to schedule our next meeting later in March – following our internal meeting?

Thanks again and please feel free to give me a jingle anytime to discuss. I am here to help.

Respectfully,

Chris

Laurie:

That number is for the room, and it would only take one incoming call. Let's use our conference call line instead: Ex. 6 - Personal Privacy

Hi Andrew,

Chris Zell is attending the meeting in person, and I'm attending via telephone. Lydia provided me with a conference line: Ex. 6 - Personal Privacy .

I'm not sure if we have a second person calling in (possibly Ben Cope), will the conference line still work?

thanks,

Laurie

All:

Ex. 6 - Personal Privacy but we'll go ahead and have the meeting today, and I'll brief her when she returns. We have room 1D-10 booked in Lacey – is everyone attending in person? Any other logistics or agenda items?

The one thing Ecology had was:

I have one for you to consider regarding the Phase 2 TMDL, particularly thinking about Capitol Lake and the dam.

- Reasonable Assurances – What is EPA's position on a potential strategy to provide another state agency with an allotted time to figure out on their own how to meet the WLAs we put into the TMDL? For example, we give the Dept. of Enterprise Services (DES), who oversees the management of Capitol Lake and the dam, ten years to identify and develop a plan to meet the assigned WLAs. If they do not meet this deadline, they would have to request a Use Attainability Analysis. Would EPA approve a TMDL with this provision? We don't need to have a firm answer at this point but we would like to initiate the conversation.
